GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE INSTITUTION

Since its creation in 1959, the EIVP is the only higher education institution delivering a diploma in Urban Engineering in France. Due to its superb location in Paris, at the heart of one of the liveliest districts, its appeal lies not only on the highly specialized education it offers, but also on the capital's international influence and diversity. It consequently takes advantage of this situation in order to establish a privileged network among higher education institutions, local administrations, companies and the industry.

PROGRAM PROPOSED & DESCRIPTION

Degree: Urban Engineer. The diploma is awarded together with the MSc degree. EUR-ACE label awarded to the Master's degree in Urban Engineering.

Graduate Program: Urban Planning and City Branding – Taught in English (30 ECTS). <https://www.eivp-paris.fr/urban-planning-and-city-branding>.

Duration of the studies: 3 years (180 ECTS)

Admission requirements: see « admission/registration procedures »

Education and professional goals: The engineers-to-be are trained to implement urban engineering techniques, take advantage of field experiences and practices, and communicate with local administrators and users; they will learn how to negotiate contracts, as well as to control and follow up development plans. Not only will they need to develop general skills and strategies, but also to assume responsibilities in a wide variety of careers.

The educational scheme is organised in 6 semesters and aims at allowing students to achieve a steady progress from general fundamental scientific knowledge to a proficiency in urban projects. They obtain the necessary theoretical knowledge and put that into practice by means of four training placements (one-third of the education period) and the realisation of their Final Projects.

Final examination: Final Project : « Travail de Fin d'Etudes » (TFE)

Examination and assessment regulations: Students' permanent work, both guided and personal, is assessed by professors throughout the academic year by means of projects, oral and written exams. Student's work assessment is reflected by the grades obtained at the end of each semester and of the academic year.

Director of Studies : Clémence De Laigue (Ms), Director of Education
